

I have a chance to join the student exchange project for clinical experience with School of Physiotherapy in Denmark. I have used my physical therapy knowledge for many patients at a hospital in Randers. The patients were with conditions in; for example, musculoskeletal, neurological, cardiopulmonary, endocrine, sports injury, pregnancy, and pediatric. Also, I have experienced that some of patients could not communicate in English because they said only in Danish, so Danish physical therapists helped me as interpreters.

According to this practice, I have got very good experiences of being a physical therapy student because it's hard to have a chance in observing and practicing in physical therapy institutes or hospitals overseas. So, I could notice the differences in academic matters, physical therapy interventions, hospital's atmosphere and management, and Danish cultures. Furthermore, I have got a lot of new friends from many countries both physical therapy and non-physical therapy students living together in the same dormitory.

Chananan Ueadulyatham

