

I was impressed in healthcare system here that PT service is divided into that in rehabilitation centers and in hospitals. The system is very clear and very helpful to patients for continuing cares. I like that the patients were facilitated to do things by themselves as soon as possible after an operation. At that time, I worked on a ward to help a leg-fracture patient to walk. Before walking, the patient needed to put on socks, I would like to help the patient but a physiotherapist there said to me no because the patient needed to do it because the patient had to do at home without assistance. In Denmark, there is a CABG program or lung problem program in order to promote general fitness which I have participated this exercise program. I found that those patients were very strong. About orthopedic cases, the interventions are emphasized in manual treatment, massage, and exercise. It gave me an impression and an inspiration to treat patients by my both hands and self-adjusted devices.

Jitchaya Trivitayakhun